Alexandra Bengston is an Associate with Pierce Davis & Perritano LLP.

Ms. Bengston’s practice focuses on litigation defending cities, towns, and other public employers in Massachusetts against claims of negligence and premises liability. Her experience encompasses various phases of litigation and trial preparation, including discovery and motion practice.

Prior to joining the firm, Ms. Bengston was an associate attorney at a domestic relations and criminal defense firm where she handled high value divorce cases which included issues of child custody, support, alimony, and asset division.

Ms. Bengston received her Juris Doctor from New England Law Boston in 2021. While in law school, Ms. Bengston worked at a risk management consulting firm where she drafted and revised contract provisions related to risk transfer and insurance requirements. In addition, Ms. Bengston has experience working in a university setting under a Title IX coordinator where she assisted in document management and participated in large-scale incident investigations and Title IX training on campus.

Prior to beginning her legal career Ms. Bengston’s work experience included underwriting commercial business for a large insurance carrier which involved evaluating risk and pricing of multi-line policies including property, general liability, workman’s compensation, and automobile liability insurance.

Ms. Bengston received her undergraduate degree from Bryant University in 2013, where she majored in Business Management with minors in Communications and Legal Studies.
